Hospital One-Pager Template

It's natural to want to give a lot of information to your loved one's care team. Their mental health journey or other history may be extensive. However, with limited time, it's more helpful to provide a brief one-page summary. Keep it calm and stick to the factual observations rather than interpreting them. You may consider including the following.

- Basic patient info
    - Name
    - Birthdate
    - Pronouns
    - Emergency contacts
    - The people who are willing to be involved in support/care after discharge
- Brief Medical history (physical and mental health), including allergies
- Recent symptoms
- Substance use
- Current living situation
- Current school or employment situation
- Current or past medications (and what has worked well)
- Current and past treatment providers (with contact info) and any key findings

- What triggered this ER visit/hospitalization
- What does their current baseline look like
- Known triggers and what calms them down
- Specific safety concerns
- Best contacts if staff have follow up questions
