Questions for the treatment team

In addition to anything unique to your loved one’s situation, consider asking the following questions:

- What is the diagnosis, and could you explain it?
- What are the main symptoms that point to that diagnosis?
- What is the prognosis?
- What is the treatment plan?
- What medications are they starting or stopping? What is the dosage, expected response, and the potential side effects?
- When can I meet with the treatment team again?
- What is the best contact name and phone number for the treatment team?
- What is the aftercare plan?
    - What level of care is appropriate?
    - Have any referrals or appointments been made?
    - What should we do if symptoms worsen again?
